Statement of Support

Skills for Health created the Non-custodial Career and Competence framework for NHS England non-custodial services, which will help with staff retention and recruitment as well as giving employees a clear idea of career advancement, supporting workforce planning for years to come.

The framework, which was developed in conjunction with employees, subject-matter specialists, and the NHS England Health and Justice Non-custodial team, whose contribution to this framework has been invaluable, will help us achieve our goal of providing people (in the non-custodial system) with high-quality healthcare delivered by committed and valued professionals while reducing health disparities.

To everybody who contributed to the creation of this framework, thank you; your work is very much appreciated.

Nikki Luffingham
Director of Transformation
Health and Justice
NHS England

Background and Introduction

The workforce challenges for health and justice services around the recruitment and retention of staff are similar to those faced by the wider NHS, with the additional challenge of delivering care within a range of justice settings, to patients and individuals that often experience a wide range of significant health inequalities.

The health and justice Inclusive Workforce Programme was created in response to the NHS People Plan \(2020/21\), to help enable health and justice commissioned services tackle issues relating to workforce recruitment and retention. The Inclusive Workforce Programme aims ‘to improve the recruitment and retention of a larger, more diverse, inclusive and representative workforce for all health and justice services and programmes’.

Health and justice commissioned services relate to health services provided in prisons, young offender institutions, immigration removal centres (IRCs), secure children’s homes, secure training centres and non-custodial support services at the initial stages of the criminal justice system and post custody.

Skills for Health were commissioned by the Health and Justice Non-custodial Team, NHS England (NHSE) to work with representatives from across the non-custodial services, who formed Expert Reference Working Groups (ERWGs) to develop a Career and Competence Framework for the Non-custodial services. The framework illustrates the career pathway and progression routes across the non-custodial pathway, helping to support staff recruitment, retention and flexibility. Staff are able to see how they might move across not only non-custodial services but also from and into custodial roles as identified in the Adult Secure and Detained Estates (ASDE) Career and Competence Framework.

The Career and Competence Framework for the non-custodial services can help support the development and growth of the workforce in this setting. The framework enables staff to assess their own skills and competences against those required for a range of roles within non-custodial services as it supports the identification of the education and training required to progress and develop into new roles. The framework is a helpful tool for service managers which can be used with staff, for example, at personal development reviews (PDRs), to identify areas for personal and professional development, and how they might be supported to attain the required levels of competence. It is also a beneficial resource for commissioners as well as education and training providers.

NHSE Health and Justice define Non-custodial Services as those that focus on appropriate diversion, support and recovery of those entering the criminal justice system (Liaison & Diversion, Healthcare in Criminal Court Settings and Mental Health Treatment Requirements (MHTR) through to and on release from a secure setting (RECONNECT and Enhanced RECONNECT). The non-custodial services provide a continuous pathway of support for individuals, ensuring communication and information sharing across the non-custodial program interfaces thereby supporting the individual’s access to treatment and support across the pathway.

The Non-custodial Career and Competence Framework brings these five non-custodial services together in one overarching career and competence framework.

The NHSE diagram below provides an overview of the non-custodial pathway.

An overview and the aims of each of the five non-custodial services are described below:

Liaison & Diversion

Liaison & Diversion services identify people who have mental health, learning disability, substance misuse or other vulnerabilities when they first come into contact with the criminal justice system as suspects, defendants or offenders.

The service can then support people through the early stages of criminal system pathway, refer them for appropriate health or social care or enable them to be diverted away from the criminal justice system into a more appropriate setting, if required.

Liaison & Diversion services aim to improve overall health outcomes for people and to support people in the reduction of re-offending. It also aims to identify vulnerabilities in people earlier on which reduces the likelihood that they will reach a crisis-point and helps to ensure the right support can be put in place from the start.

Healthcare in Criminal Court Settings

NHSE has co-commissioned, with the Ministry of Justice, Healthcare in Criminal Court Settings services to provide appropriate healthcare in criminal courts (magistrates or crown), to deliver proportionate, effective, and quality healthcare for those temporarily detained in criminal court cells in England.

The service will provide support to manage and maintain an individuals' health and wellbeing during their time detained in the court setting, via a medical advice helpline. A triage clinician will provide remote triage and assessment for the individual, and determine the appropriate response, which could be telemedicine's or to be seen in person by a clinician.

The joint/collaborative working arrangement between NHSE and His Majesty's Prison and Probation Service via the existing Prisoner Escort and Custody Services contract, aims to ensure that anyone who is detained in a criminal court setting in England has access to quality, timely healthcare advice, support and intervention to ensure their healthcare and welfare, and ability to attend court.

Mental Health Treatment Requirements

The Mental Health Treatment Requirement is one of three possible treatment requirements which may be sentenced to as part of a community or suspended sentence order, as listed below:

- Mental Health Treatment Requirement (MHTR),
- Drug Rehabilitation Requirement (DRR),
- Alcohol Treatment Requirement (ATR).

These three treatment requirements were introduced as a sentencing option in the Criminal Justice Act 2003. The MHTR legislation is for all people with mental health issues irrespective of their level of needs, for those from low level to more severe mental health issues requiring specialist secondary care services.

The overarching aim of this programme is to reduce reoffending and short custodial sentences for those with underlying mental health and associated vulnerabilities, by directly addressing and treating the underlying health and social issues which may be contributing toward the offending behaviours.

This programme provides pre-sentence screening, assessment, followed by MHTR treatment through a defined process for individuals sentenced to an MHTR.

RECONNECT

RECONNECT is a care after custody service that seeks to improve the continuity of care of individuals with an identified health need leaving prison or an IRC. This involves working with them before they are released to support their transition to community-based services, thereby safeguarding health gains made whilst in prison or an IRC.

RECONNECT services aim to improve the wellbeing of people leaving prison or IRCs, reduce health inequalities, and address health-related drivers of offending behaviours and/or absconding. Whilst not a service which provides clinical interventions, the RECONNECT service offers liaison, advocacy, signposting and support to those leaving prison or IRCs to support engagement in community-based health and support services.

The service will work with individuals up to 12 weeks pre-release and up to 6 months post-release to support and empower individuals to engage with their own healthcare needs. RECONNECT services ensure they undertake a holistic screening of individuals and collaborative assessments with individuals to effectively identify their health and social care needs, what matters to them and appropriate areas of support.

Enhanced RECONNECT

The Enhanced RECONNECT (ER) service builds upon the RECONNECT programme as an enhanced pathway of care. ER takes a collaborative partnership approach to managing the most complex and high-risk offenders who leave prison. ER aims to support those that do not meet the threshold or are unsuitable for other risk management and support intervention services, such as Intensive Intervention Risk Management Service.

ER services aim to reduce health related barriers that directly impact on the individual's engagement prior to, and upon leaving prison; to reduce health inequalities and address health-related drivers of serious and high-risk offending behaviours. The ER service is a psychologically led service that offers interventions, structured support, advocacy and signposting to those leaving prison to engage with community-based health and support services, to reduce social exclusion and thereby reduce their health-related offending behaviours.

Career Frameworks and Agenda for Change

A Career Framework can be utilised in a variety of settings and is not linked to pay. This makes it particularly useful in areas where staff are employed by different organisations and across sectors, such as justice and social care.

NHS 'Agenda for Change' is the pay system that incorporates job evaluation, the Knowledge and Skills Framework, terms and conditions and is specific to the NHS. It is evaluated within services.

The Career Framework provides a common language to support workforce planning and career development by identifying the characteristics and attributes of those working at different levels of the Career Framework and uses National Occupational Standards (NOS) to capture the knowledge and skills required for roles.

Whilst some of the Career Framework descriptors might use similar language to Agenda for Change, there is no automatic read across from Agenda for Change bands to levels within the Career Framework.

The levels for the roles identified within the Non-custodial Career and Competence Framework do not necessarily align with Agenda for Change bandings.

The Non-custodial Career and Competence Framework

The Non-custodial Career and Competence Framework is based on the Skills for Health Career Framework (Table 1). This provides more general information on the level at which the job holder is required to function and is applicable to roles within the health, social care and justice sectors. Each level has characteristics and attributes that describe, for example, the levels of autonomy, responsibility, decision making, and critical analysis required for that in a role or job. It comprises 9 levels ranging from initial entry jobs at Level 1 to the most senior staff at Level 9.

This Framework document comprises the following two elements:

- A career framework for those working within non-custodial services. This covers 21 specific role profiles for roles across Liaison & Diversion, Healthcare in Criminal Court Settings, Mental Health Treatment Requirements, RECONNECT and Enhanced RECONNECT services. These role profiles are indicative of the types of roles found across non-custodial services. They are not meant to be prescriptive, but provide a useful starting point when managers are looking to develop job descriptions, and for staff wanting to understand more about how they may enter and progress within non-custodial services/settings or move into other health and justice settings.
- A competence framework for those working in non-custodial services. The competences used are National Occupational Standards (NOS)<sup>2</sup> that describe the skills, knowledge and understanding needed to undertake a particular task or job to a nationally recognised level of competence. They focus on what the person needs to be able to do as well as what they must know and understand to work effectively. The NOS identified within this framework relate to the provision of services within the non-custodial pathway, a sub-set of which will relate to specific job roles.

The Non-custodial Career Framework

The Non-custodial Career Framework comprises roles from Level 2 to Level 8 of the Skills for Health Career Framework. There were no roles identified by the ERWGs for development at Levels 1 and 9. The roles developed are as detailed in Table 1 below.

There are several roles identified within the framework relating to the provision of services across the non-custodial pathway, providing an opportunity for career progression. Individuals will be able to progress into different roles within the framework, either vertically or laterally.

An individual, for example, may enter the Liaison & Diversion service as a Peer Support Worker at Level 3 and progress to a Level 4 Engagement Worker within the RECONNECT service after undertaking the required training and development. An example of lateral progression may include a nurse working within an NHS Trust moving to work within a Healthcare in Criminal Court Setting service.

The role profiles developed for the Non-custodial Career and Competence Framework when used in practice, can be adapted to meet local service requirements.

| Level 9 – People working at level 9 require knowledge at the most advanced frontier of the field of work and at the interface between fields. They will have responsibility for the development and delivery of a service to a population, at the highest level of the organisation.(no roles were identified at this level)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                     |                                                                                                         |                                      |                                                                                                         |
| Level 8 - People working at level 8 of the career framework require highly specialised knowledge, some of which is at the forefront of knowledge in a field of work, which they use as the basis for original thinking and/or research. They are leaders with considerable responsibility for service improvement, and the ability to research and analyse complex processes. They have responsibility for service improvement or development. They may have considerable clinical and/or management responsibilities, be accountable for service delivery or have a leading education or commissioning role. | Strategic Manager            | Triage Clinician (Doctor)                                                        |                                      |                                                                                                         |
| Level 7 - People at level 7 of the career framework have a critical awareness of knowledge issues in the field of work and at the interface between different fields. They are innovative and have responsibility for developing and changing practice and/or services in a complex and unpredictable environment.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Operational/ Service Manager |                                                                                                         | Clinical Lead | Service ManagerClinical Lead (Enhanced RECONNECT) |
| Level 6 - People at level 6 require a critical understanding of detailed theoretical and practical knowledge, are specialist and/or have management and leadership responsibilities. They demonstrate initiative and are creative in finding solutions to problems. They have some responsibility for team performance and service development, and they consistently undertake self-development.                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Specialist Practitioner      | Paramedic/NurseTriage Clinician (Paramedic/Nurse) |                                      | Clinician/Clinical Lead (RECONNECT)                                              |

The Non-custodial Competence Framework

The purpose of a competence framework is to identify all the activities that take place within a pathway or service. It includes NOS (competences) relevant to the activities being undertaken by those working along the pathway/within the service. The competences include knowledge and understanding as well as performance criteria. Whilst they cover a function, they do not reflect the overall level of a role.

NOS (competences) are developed to describe the level of competence for a function, rather than for specific staff groups and therefore should be interpreted as applying to the context in which an individual works. Some competences may appear from the title to be applicable only in a health setting, for example, 'Communicate Effectively in a Healthcare Environment.' However, the knowledge and performance criteria within it are applicable in a wide range of settings, including health and justice, and social care.

The competences included in this framework are drawn from health, social care, the justice sector and other areas, including leadership and management, administration and learning and development. They have been used within the role profiles to describe identified roles within non-custodial services, alongside their career framework level.

The competence framework focuses on managing individuals within an approach whereby services work collaboratively to ensure that individuals receive coordinated multi-agency support to address their identified health and social care needs.

The competences identified will complement protocols and guidelines used within non-custodial services, as they describe the knowledge required and the performance criteria that should be met by an individual working with those protocols and guidelines.

Core Competences

The competences in Table 2 are core and relate to any role at the levels specified within the Skills for Health Career Framework.

The non-custodial services role profile templates include the core competences below, and are the competences that staff are expected to demonstrate at the relevant Career Framework Level.

Role Specific Competences

In addition to the core competences detailed above, role specific competences for the identified roles within each of the non-custodial pservices have been identified and are included within the role profile templates. The table for each non-custodial service illustrates where competences occur across roles at different levels of the Career Framework, enabling individuals to identify any additional knowledge or skills they may require in order to not only to move within an area of work, but across the non-custodial pathway as a whole.

Summary

The Non-custodial Career and Competence Framework will assist the recruitment of new staff with an increased scope for career choices, support the retention of existing staff through increased opportunities for career progression, and aid the development of a more flexible workforce, with enhanced opportunities for integrated working.

Clearly articulating the competences required to deliver services to individuals accessing the non-custodial pathway will ultimately aid in improving the quality of care and support being delivered.

Acknowledgements

Skills for Health would like to thank members of the Liaison & Diversion, Healthcare in Criminal Court Settings, Mental Health Treatment Requirements and RECONNECT and Enhanced RECONNECT Expert Reference Working Groups for their significant contribution to the development of the Non-custodial Career and Competence Framework.
